

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the scientific and organizing committees, we have the pleasure of inviting you to attend the "Athens Conference on Advances in Chemistry (acac2020)", which will be held online during March 10-14, 2021 in Athens, Greece.

This conference is the second of a series of International Conferences and follows the one held on the occasion of the centennial anniversary of the Department of Chemistry at NKUA since its establishment in 1918.

We hope this conference to be highly active and a forum for exchange of the latest knowledge concerning chemistry and related areas among researchers from all over the world.

The deadlines for online registration, abstract & paper submission as well as all important-dates of the conference can be found at <http://www.acac2020.chem.uoa.gr/>

We are looking forward to connecting online and engaging in fruitful scientific discussions.
